Backache is kidney danger.

Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly.

Cure all distressing, dangerous kidney ills.

Plenty of evidence to prove this.

Geo. H. Buswell, Marston St., Norway, Me., says: "About six months ago my kidneys became disordered and I began to suffer from dull pains across the small of my back. A languid feeling came over me, and I was unable to rest well. I also noticed that the kidney secretions were too frequent in passage although the flow was scanty. My body often bloated and I was also troubled with dull headaches. I read that Doan's Kidney Pills had rid other persons of similar troubles, and deciding to try them, I procured a box from Stone's drug store. They cured me and I am perfectly free from kidney complaint at the present time."

The Awakening.

Mrs. Cora M. W. Greenleaf has had her poem, "The Awakening," that originally appeared in the New York Evening World, printed in the San Francisco News-Letter, taken from the World and the Boston Sun and Globe reprinted it from the western paper. Thus it has crossed the continent twice.

Mrs. Greenleaf says, "Only for the encouragement I received from the ADVERTISER, I could not have persevered as I have, and every time I read of someone or praise comes my way, I always feel a wave of gratitude to the ADVERTISER."

The poem is:

Come home to me, dear heart, I did not know Your absence brief could make my heart ache so;

But now that you are gone, and far away, And dull and empty seems each endless day, My eyes are longing for the sight of you, And lips and arms join in longing, too.

Day after day, when you were here by me, 'Twas not indifference, but security.

That made me feel so safe, so secure, dear, But now—I'd give the world your voice to hear, I did not know, myself, I cared so much For any word or look or smiling touch.

Ah, if my spirit could but cross the space Dividing us, and meet your face to face, I'd know for myself, and not understand, Could I but hear your voice and feel your hand.

And end this fever of unrest and pain, And end this fever of unrest and pain.

Nature has provided the saline waters of the "Welland" with the needed appliances for treatment, rest and comfort. St. Catharines, on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway System, is Canada's great winter health resort.

For Aged People.

Old Folks Should be Cared in their Selection of Regulative Medicine.

With advanced age, comes inactive bowel movement and sluggish liver. Nature is unable to perform her proper functions and requires assistance. Otherwise, there is constant suffering from constipation and its attendant evils. Old folks should never use physic that is harsh and irritating.

We have a safe, dependable and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitution who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorder. We are so certain that it will completely relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we offer them with our personal guarantee that they shall cost the user nothing if they fail to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy. They have a soothing, healing, strengthening, tonic and regulative action upon the bowels, generating a wave-like motion which forces their contents onward and outward; thus stimulating nature in perfect bowel movement. They tone up and strengthen the nerves and muscles and restore the bowels and associated organs to more vigorous and healthy activity. They may be taken at any time without inconvenience; do not cause any griping, nausea, diarrhoea, excessive looseness, flatulence or other disagreeable effect. Try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee: 36 tablets 25 cents, and 12 tablets 10 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Norway only at our store—The Rexall Store, F. P. WEST FRYEBURG.

A Social Evening.
October 30th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Wentworth, East Conway, N.
H., the first evening social meeting of the season for the Stirling club occurred with a good attendance of the members and club husbands.

In recognition of the Halloween season the hosts had the piazzas and lawn illuminated brightly with the conventional candles in large and artistically carved pumpkins. Within as well, all was warmth and cheer. At 6 p. m.
those present were served with the picnic supper which is the custom adopted for the present.

Later arrivals were not doomed to a long period of waiting ere the spread was renewed and the delicacies soon disposed of, after which five tables were brought in in preparation for the progressive whist which was the order for the ensuing evening. A few who did not play amused themselves in quiet sociability or engaged in piecing together puzzles.

At eleven p. m. the scores were recorded and D. A. Ballard was awarded the first prize and George Thompson the second. The awarding of the prizes was the occasion of much merriment so that the hour of departure was delayed by good feeling and marked by a tribute to decorum as the last guest had taken leave before the witching hour and a fair moon beamed approval upon the hosts and home-seekers.

E. W. Burbank visited his daughter, Mrs. Fannie Gile in Jackson, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meserve made a pleasant visit with Mr. Meserve's sister in Jackson, N. H., and returned to their home.

Mrs. Elliot Gale and little Katherine visited relatives of whom they have several in Jackson, N. H., spending a week pleasantly.

Osborne Fernald of Jackson, N. H., has been in this section several times of late disposing of apples at prices mutually satisfactory to dealer and consumer.

Mrs. H. D. E. Hutchins accompanied Mrs. Sarah J. Hutchins on the excursion to Boston and visited at Mrs. Helen (Hutchins) Mason's in Malden, Mass.

Two meetings of the Stirling Literary club during October were held and full of interest to those present engaged in the study of history, being English up to the present time making a fair beginning in French topics. At the meeting with Mrs. Charles Andrews an interesting paper relating to the Victorian era was read by the hostess. By request, Calista Andrews, a guest of Mrs. Andrews, read a magazine paper by Henry Markland relating to John of Arc, which was much appreciated. Oct. 20th at the home of Mrs. George Thompson a good deal of business was in order and left brief time for study yet some progress had been made introductory to the later interesting events of an interesting country and its people. The first Wednesday of November a meeting was held at Mrs.
Thompson's but the weather being unfavorable not many ventured out and the writer failed to get a report.

Mrs. Mary Charles is spending some weeks at Skowhegan.

Mrs. Olive Hutchins took in the excursion to the "Hub" the past ten days.

Mrs. Abbie Waterhouse is spending some time at T. F. Dresser's in Stow.

Mrs. J. W. Towle and daughter, Mrs.
Emma Haley, were guests at Chas. Andrews', Nov. 7.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Smith are still at Benton Woods, N. H., where they have been the past season.

HIRAM.

I understand we are going to have a talking postal card and if we do what a lot of talking some of us will do. The talking postal card is the invention of a French engineer and has become so popular in France that the American rights have been secured and the device will soon be placed in the cities of the United States. The person wishing to send a talking postal card to a friend, enters the booth and talks into a machine that records the words on a specially prepared post card. When the recipient receives the card one hundred or a thousand miles away or more, he or perhaps she takes the card to the nearest booth and inserts it in a machine which talks the message it contains. The record on the postal card is indestructible and it is claimed the exact voice of the sender is heard. That's what we might call a telephone message by mail.

There is likely to be a coal famine to those who have not put in their winter's supply of the black diamonds. Our local dealer here has been trying to get a carload of coal from Portland for the last three weeks and to his appeals the reply is "no cars" to send it on. The Grand Trunk is running a large amount of coal through to the north of us, said to be for its own use.

Edwin C. Rowe, who for a year or more has been in poor health, had recovered so much better that he had gone back to active work in his large department store here. Last week he went to Boston to buy the winter's stock and on the way home had an ill turn but reached home all right. The doctor was called and he considered the case so serious that Dr. Kier of Portland sent for and last Sunday an operation was performed for appendicitis. The doctors found it to be a very bad case and considered that the chance for recovery was very slight. Mr. Rowe realized the critical nature of his case and made all necessary arrangement of his business affairs, so that if he did not rally everything would be as he wished it. Wednesday morning Mr. Rowe was resting comfortably, having had a good night and his slight chance of recovery is improving. The announcement of his sudden severe illness gave the community a shock and many sympathizing friends are anxiously waiting the results, hoping that he may be spared to us for many years yet.

Does No

Ayer's Sarsaparilla does you feel better one day, is not a strong drink. There is not a drop of even gain that comes from it. We wish you would know. Trust him.

Does Not Stimulate

Ayer's Sarsaparilla does not stimulate. It does not make you feel better one day, then as bad as ever the next. It is not a strong drink. No reaction after you stop using it. There is not a drop of alcohol in it. You have the steady, even gain that comes from a strong tonic and alternative. We wish you would ask your doctor about this. He knows. Trust him. Do as he says. J.C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

What are Ayer's Pills? Liver Pills. How long have they been sold? Nearly fifty years. Do doctors recommend them? Ask your own doctor and find out.

New Grange Hall.
 The West Paris Grange took in six new members at their all day meeting, Saturday, which they held in the Centennial hall, where they have been holding their meetings all summer while their new hall was being built. Their harvest dinner and supper was served for the first time in their new hall. The building is made of cement blocks and a fire proof roofing. The windows have all been put in and the grounds graded so that the outside is practically finished. One night last week they had a clearing up "bee" and removed the loose lumber and waste, cleared the floor, set up a cook stove and box stove for temporary service. They made about $55 from the dinner and supper, which was of excellent quality and bountiful. NORWAY AND VICINITY.

Echoes from the Pomological Meeting.

The closing session was held Thursday evening, the chief speakers being

Prof. E. E. Philbrook of Portland and

R. L. Cummings of West Paris. F. H.

Knowlton of Farmington, the former secretary, was called upon, and he spoke briefly on fruit growing.

Prof. E. E. Philbrook, special field agent in charge of the gypsy moth work in Maine, gave a stereoscopic lecture on the gypsy moth work in the State. This is the first time these slides, forty-five in number, have been shown, and the first time a lecture of this kind has been given. Prof. Philbrook gave a history of the gypsy moth work in the State, in a working, not a theoretical way.

"Why do we not go ahead and develop this great fruit industry as it should be?" asked Mr. Cummings.

"Our natural adaptation is second to none.

We are near the great markets of this country. We are well situated for the foreign trade, being near the sea-board.

You cannot develop this industry without capital."

Keep All Your Promises.

I like with all my heart any one who can keep the promises he makes to himself as rigorously as if they were made to another.

I went away on a vacation once with a girl who always took a cold shower bath in the morning. With all the comforts of home, omitted as they quite frequently are when one goes vacationing, a shower bath was not a particularly easy process.

One morning when it was unusually cold, when the water supply was unusually scarce and getting up seemed unusually distasteful, I suggested: "Don't bother to take your bath this morning."

"I must, I promised I would every morning for a year," she answered. "Promised whom?" I asked, "your mother? I don't believe she'd mind if you missed it just once."

"Oh no; I promised myself," she said, so I must.

And to my thorough admiration she did.

Most of us think breaking faith with ourselves is a minor thing, but it does not seem so to me. Breaking a promise to one's self unless changed conditions give one full right to exonerate one's self seems as weak, if not as dishonorable, as breaking one's word to some one else.

"To keep one's friend without captivation and to keep friends with one's self on the same hard terms," was part of Robert Louis Stevenson's creed. But that it is weak to break promises to one's self does not mean that it is stronger to refuse to make them. On the contrary.

I do not like the man who has gotten to the point where he says at New Year: "I will not make any resolutions because I know I will break them."

The man who makes his resolutions with fresh enthusiasm and fresh hope each year, even if he does break most of them, has a far better chance of getting somewhere than the one who makes none.

But the man or woman with whom your gold, your secret, or most precious of all, your heart, can best be trusted is the one who can both make and keep his promises to himself.

For it is as true now as it was 300 years ago:

"To thine own self be true
And it will follow as the night the day
Thou canst not then be false to any man."

More Trained Farmers.

This is the going away season, as well as the coming home. Trunks have been packed and sent, and the boys are now beginning to write home for money.

College boys, who this year have gone away from home to learn how to live, are more and more turning toward the agricultural courses offered in the fine State Universities.

Parents—especially city parents—realize that the farm life is the independent life; and the community applauds the agriculturally-inclined lad because it too knows that it is the farmer who is to be the salvation of the country. Unless less life and energy is concentrated in the city, and more is applied to the cultivation of soil, there is going to be a famine and poverty in this great country of ours.

The thousands of untitled western acres must be the food of our grandchildren.

The training of the boys of the present generation will mean everything to the future of our food question. Not only must more land be placed under cultivation, but farmers must be trained to work more and more the land already in use.

Old, orthodox farmers are apt to hoot at the claims of agricultural colleges; but it is rapidly being carried to such an extent that even the most doubting of them will soon be convinced. The agricultural department is not only promulgating literature to aid the farmer, but it is doing so in practice. Trained men are being sent to induce farmers to give up two or three acres to experiments toward increasing their crops. These farmers are gaining the interest of their neighbors.

Down South somewhere, there was a farmer who had never raised more than half a bale of cotton to the acre. When the government experts approached him he declared that it was impossible to raise more. At last, however, induced to experiment, he succeeded in raising a bale and a half on each of the three acres he devoted to the purpose. He thus tripled his yield of cotton.

It is not mere fancy with the thinkers. They know that unless the boys become trained farmers, this country will be importing corn and wheat, some day, instead of exporting, as it now does.

OWES HER LIFE TO

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vienna, W. Va.—"I feel that I owe the last ten years of my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Eleven years ago I was a walking shadow. Had been under the doctor's care but got no relief. My husband persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it worked like a charm. It relieved all my pains and misery. I advise all suffering women to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

"Mrs. Emma Whitcomb, Vienna, W. Va."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any similar medicine in the country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaint, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every such suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Some Don'ts.

Don't stick your deer in the neck and disfigure it. If you must bleed him stick him way down in the brisket. Most deer will bleed internally and all the blood will come out when dressing.

Don't split the neck up the front, this is important, either split it up the back of the neck or peel it down like a stocking.

Don't keep the head too long, but get it to the taxidermist as soon as possible. If you do have to keep it some time, skin and salt well as per following instructions.

Don't cut ragged holes in the neck in skinning.

Don't throw away the feet. They will make nice soups for you give your friends, when used up into ink-wells, ash trays, jewel cases, pin-cushions and thermometers. The tail also makes an attractive thermometer.

Don't spill a good job on the head for the sake of getting the animal home whole to show your friends. Both they and yourself will appreciate a nice job on the head much better. So get it to Nash as soon as possible.

Don't cut the skin too short on the neck. Give the taxidermist a clean chance to use his judgment and experience. He knows his job and will make it right and it is better to have too much than too little.

If a deer, moose or caribou, split the neck up the back from a point between the shoulders to nearly up to a point midway the base of the antlers, then cut diagonally to base of each antler.

Skin the neck and when you reach the antler pull the skin away from the base; it will take some pulling to do this but be sure to get all the skin. After you get by the antlers comes the eyes and care must be used not to cut the lids.

In the lower corner of the eye is a pit where the tear gland goes; do not cut this but pry out the skin.

Peel the skin down over the face like a stocking and when you come to the lips leave all the inner skin attached also the nostrils by cutting close to the bone.

The same is true of the ears, do not try to get out too much of the flesh from these parts. After removing the skin prime it thoroughly with salt. (Liverpool salt is best.)

Lay the skin in a cool place with the flesh side up if you are in a permanent camp, if not roll it up with flesh side in.

Next clean all the meat from the skull. You can and either smoke or salt it well, and the head is ready to be carried around until you get to the taxidermist.

November has been quite mild up to the present, with just cold enough to remind people that it is time to stow away screens and put on storm doors and double windows.

Rev. J. H. Little went to New Gloucester Friday week to give his address on Patriotism, Citizenship and the Grange, at Intervale Grange Hall. There was a large audience, a supper and a program of music with literary exercises. The object was to raise funds to buy a piano for the hall.

Several families here who did not put in their winter supply of coal during the summer months are being considerably inconvenienced just now for want of coal. Our local dealer, Mr. Davis, has been trying for two weeks to get a car load of coal from Portland, but for want of cars the Grand Trunk R. R. has been unable to haul it. This mild weather is favorable for those whose coal bin is empty or nearly so.

We were shown a rare sight recently in a pile of wood which was placed in the woods near Mr. Jonathan C. Robertson by herself over forty years ago. Mrs. Robertson has been dead many years, but her daughters have cherished it as the laborious work of their mother's hands, and there it remains, which in this age of rushing things along is indeed a curiosity.

Oxford County Cow Test Association.

The regular meeting of the Oxford County Dairy Testing Association was held at Canton, Tuesday, Nov. 9, and while the attendance was not as large as it has ordinarily been, yet the interest was splendid, and good results will come from the meeting.

C. T. Bonney, president of the association, gave a talk during the forenoon session. During the afternoon session a lecture was given by Dairy Instructor Merrill on the lessons to be learned from Dairy Testing Association work concerning feeding problems.

A. C. Cook the official tester of the Association brought out some very important lessons from the association work. In one instance where a change in grain ration was recommended by Mr. Cook and followed by the owner of the herd on the animals composing the herd, an increase in production of more than an average of $1.00 per month resulted. At the same time the cost of the ration and its protein contents were lessened.

The next meeting will be held at East Sumner the first Tuesday in December, and at that time a demonstration will be given by a representative of the department in the lessons to be drawn from, and the value of weighing the milk yield of each animal daily.

Cumberland-Oxford Pomona.

Cumberland-Oxford County Pomona mat with the West Baldwin grange, Nov. 4, with nearly 100 present at the dinner. In the afternoon, an open session was given. The address of welcome, given by Nellie Black, was brief, broad and comprehensive. Melville Gould of Hiram gave the response. He was more than pleased to have one of the Sisters give the address of welcome. He furthermore said the grange was seeking after co-operation among its members.

Then followed music by the Weeman's orchestra; reading by Grace Black; solo by Nellie Black with Mrs. Primrose Kezar Falls as accompanist. A brief talk by Walter McKen was followed by an impressive memorial exercise led by Rev. Cyrus Purinton with the audience repeating the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Lillian Black played "Tea for Two" to Thee," "Sweet and Low" on the piano. A reading was given by Mrs. Hannah Burnell-Bessie and a piano solo by Essie Weeman. W. J. Thompson, State Lecturer, gave a lecture.

He showed how the past and present were closely connected. The three essential principles or features that made individual or nation rise above its environment and helped the uncivilized to civilized life was first to fight and then to do justly and give the "square deal," and third to combine them with love and mercy. This address was followed by readings by Rev. Cyrus Purinton, and Annie Guptill; and a duet by Nellie Black and I. S. Chase.

The granges represented were Mt. C. C. Jer, Mt. Elna, Maple Grove, Highland, Frost Mountain, Fryeburg, Naples, Crystal Spring, with visitors from Cornish and Charter Oak of Kezar Falls.

Oxford and Cumberland Counties Jersey Breeders.

In spite of a rainy day there were fourteen present when the meeting was called to order by President H. W. Evans of North Bridgton in his comfortable parlor. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Secretary Hamlin, and the usual routine business was carried out. Clifford C. Smith was elected to membership.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday, Feb. 8th, in the Grange hall at South Waterford, where the members will discuss Jersey families.

A discussion of the opportunities and possibilities of the association was led by Asst. Dairy Instructor Redman, and followed by various members, after which the meeting was adjourned to the dining room where the well filled tables were lighted for their load. In the afternoon the meeting was called to order in the stable, where Asst. Dairy Instructor Redman explained the use of the score card. Denmark Merry Maiden, an A. R. O. animal, was brought out, scored by the members and then by Mr. Redman, discussing each point in turn. Another animal was scored in this manner, two were judged comparatively, and two more examined and their points discussed. The members took an active interest in the work, and it is expected in the future a class in stock judging will be held at every meeting, except the one coming in February, when it will not be convenient to have stock present. A list of the stock for sale will soon be prepared by Sec. C. S. Hamlin, P. O., Harrison, which may be looked over by prospective purchasers.

M. R. E. Clemmons is home from John Durgin's, where she has been working. Washie Day and Waldo Lowell have taken the timber to saw on the Wilhe Day lot.

Mrs. Emma Day passed away Oct. 27, after a long and lingering illness. Funeral services were conducted at the Lord's church, where she had been working, with her son, Willie, and wife who kindly cared for her. Words of comfort were spoken by Rev. Newton Clough of Brownfield. Interment in the Lord cemetery. She is survived by three sons and four daughters, a number of grandchildren, and nieces and nephews besides friends who mourn their loss.

Let those who love the White Mountains rejoice then for the justly celebrated Glen Ellis Falls and the Crystal Cascade have both been handed over to the trustees of real estate of the Appalachian Mountain Club, to be by them administered as public reservations. These two beautiful falls lie at the foot of Mt. Washington in Flaham Notch, about four miles below the old Glen House location, and ten miles north of Jackson "City." Ever since the White Mountains became known to the tourist these falls have been held among the choicest features of the region. Sweetser regarded Glen Ellis as "the finest fall in the White Mountains." Of the Crystal Cascade, Starr King wrote in his "The White Hills."

Descriptive Lecture.

The Rev. Mr. McWhorter of South Paris gave a very interesting and descriptive lecture Monday evening at the Sons of Temperance hall. His subject was "From the Pine Tree State to the Isle of the Shamrock," and was descriptive of a trip from South Paris to his old home in Ireland after an absence of twenty years. Just before leaving for the lecture, he gave a very appropriate address which had a happy reference to Ireland and was evidently appreciated by the lecturer. Mr. McWhorter began his lecture by describing his trolley ride from Mechanic Falls to Portland and comparing the beautiful scenery of Maine most favorably with that of any part of Europe including Scotland.

The lecturer then told of his trip from Boston to Liverpool and related to several amusing experiences while on shipboard, of his ride from Liverpool to London. Mr. McWhorter said it was impossible to describe London. That it was just a huge forest of stone buildings with a population of 7,500,000, with 7,000 miles of streets and 1,000,000 inhabitants. The density, its density and its cosmopolitan population was like no other city on earth, and in fact was a little world by itself.

Mr. McWhorter then described the various places he visited, including St. Paul's Cathedral, London Tower, Westminster Abbey, the Embankment, Trafalgar Square, Buckingham Palace, Hyde Park and Parliament while in session.

After spending a week in London the lecturer took his audience across the Irish Sea to the Isle of the Shamrock. He described in the limited time his visit with his aged parents, relatives and friends. Told of seeing that great institution of learning in Dublin, Trinity College, and on asking if a poor boy could get through was answered "No, we haven't got to that yet." Mr. McWhorter then said we have a great institution in America called Harvard College where any poor boy can work his way through.

"One of the most stirring sights that I saw was the Statue of Liberty standing from a staff in front of a hotel." The return trip was not as pleasant as the boat was smaller, the voyage stormy and many of the passengers were forced to relinquish their rations immediately after eating.

Joseph Skillings.

Joseph Skillings died Sunday the 14th at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Rowe, who lives in the Webster district.
Mr. Skillings was born in Watford 77 years and 3 months ago and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Skillings. He had lived in Oxford with his daughter the past 18 years. Of his eight children, three sons and five daughters, only four daughters are now living—Mrs. Hattie E. Rowe of Oxford, Mrs. Mary J. Fox of Auburn, Mrs. Annie Herrick of Greenwood and Mrs. Belle Whitman of Oufield.

Politically he was a democrat. The funeral was from his late home, Rev. B. S. Hildner of Norway being the attending clergyman. There was singing by Mrs. Alvin Lovejoy, Mrs. Alice Lamb and Grant Abbott. There were flowers from the Pythian Sisters of Oxford and many friends in the neighborhood. Interment was in the Webster cemetery. The bearers were Alvin Perkins, James Russ, John Lamb and Albert Wright.

School Notes.

School in the Caldwell district will close Friday, the 19th, for a two weeks' vacation. Miss Addie Wills will go on a two weeks' hunting trip in the Rangely Lake region. The fall term of all other schools will close Wednesday, Nov. 24. The winter term of all schools will begin Monday, Nov. 29.

There will be a Thanksgiving entertainment by the school at the Webster school house on Monday evening, Nov. 22nd. This school is under the care of Susie M. Walker of Norway and Miss Walker is proving a worthy instructor. Both teacher and pupils invite the parents and friends of the school to be present.

Entertainment at Pigeon Hill.

The School Improvement League had an entertainment and pie supper, in the schoolhouse on Pigeon Hill, Saturday evening, Nov. 18. The number thirteen evidently had no terror, for Miss Linnell said the evening was an unequalled success. But the successful venture was not brought about without a lot of work, in which teacher and pupils were ably assisted by the parents. That is a common hard fact that when all will work together. Miss Linnell is a hard working teacher, in perfect touch with her little pupils, and well liked by their parents. And the parents and people were very kind in giving her their generous support. The program was a long one, and before the close, some of the little people showed signs of fatigue, but they all "stuck it out," and did exceedingly well.

Little Ralph Verrill seemed to make a hit with the audience, and when he sang, "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Come Marching," beating his drum at the same time, he was called back to sing again. The selections by the orchestra were well received and they nearly always responded to the demand for more. The chorus by the school and the recitations were well given, and in fact everything was good. The crowd, though a bit noisy at times, was bent on getting its money's worth, and I think each one was perfectly satisfied. At close of the entertainment the prizes were brought forth, and Mrs. Thayer acted as auctioneer. There were pies of all sizes, kinds and descriptions, and they were certainly pleasing to the eye, but the writer can't vouch for their non-dyspeptic qualities.

It was evidently a pie-eating crowd, as hardly any pie brought less than seventy-five cents, and one brought two dollars. About twenty-one dollars was realized, and will be used by the school in improving their room. It was one of those evenings that serve to bring the town and school closer together, as it was filled with wholesome pleasure and amusement, and included both children and parents. Let us have more just such evenings. The following is a complete program:
